Danish scientists uncovered compelling evidence that a significant percentage of the batches of the Pfizer-BioNTech BNT162b2 COVID-19 vaccine distributed in the EU likely consisted of placebos — and the non-placebo batches demonstrated higher-than-normal severe adverse events in recipients.

The scientists published their study in March, as a letter submitted to the European Journal of Clinical Investigation. BNT162b2 is the vaccine granted Emergency Use Authorization from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and other authorities.

The study initially did not attract attention, but recent media reports brought it to light.

Journalist Kim Iversen, who on Wednesday reported on the study on "The Kim Iversen Show," called it an "absolute bombshell of a story."

Iversen cited as her source an article in The Daily Sceptic, also published Wednesday, by five German scientists who have publicly questioned the safety of the vaccines.

The Danish researchers looked at Pfizer-BioNTech vaccines administered in Denmark between December 2020 and January 2022 and found that batches of the Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine could neatly be divided into three groups.

Two of the three groups demonstrated higher-than-normal percentages of severe adverse events in recipients. However, for the third group of batches, a total of zero adverse events were reported.

The researchers also examined data indicating which batches were inspected and tested by regulators and discovered that almost none of the batches from the third group — associated with no severe adverse events — had been inspected.

According to Iversen, the findings suggest that "many of the batches of the Pfizer vaccine administered to the public — up to 30% — were placebos. And even worse, the evidence points to regulators knowing about it and willingly administering them."

The study's authors wrote:

> "The observed variation in SAE [severe adverse event] rates and seriousness between BTN162b2 vaccine batches in this nationwide study was contrary to the expected homogenous rate and distribution of SAEs between batches.
> "In conclusion, the results suggest the existence of a batch-dependent safety signal for the BNT162b2 vaccine, and more studies are warranted to explore this preliminary observation and its consequences."

Iversen said these results mean "either they were actively experimenting on the public or they were covering up for the fact that the vaccines came with numerous side effects."

'This is how placebos would look'

The German scientists first discussed the results of the Danish study last week on a German online talk show, Punkt.Preradovic, hosted by journalist Milena Preradovic.

According to The Daily Sceptic, they analyzed how "the batches used in Denmark, which are represented by the points in the graph, essentially break down into three groups."

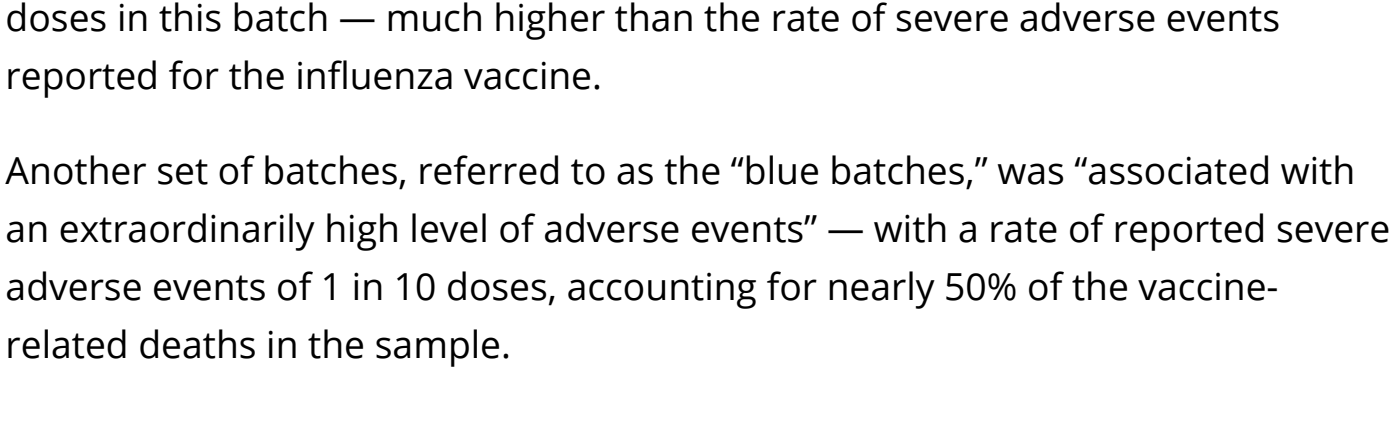

FIGURE 1 Numbers of suspected adverse events (SAEs) after BNT612b2 mRNA vaccination in Denmark (27 December 2020–11 January 2022) according to the number of doses per vaccine batch. Each dot represents a single vaccine batch. Trendlines are linear regression lines. Blue: $R^2=0.78$, $\beta=0.0898$ (95% confidence interval [CI] 0.0514–0.1281), green: $R^2=0.89$, $\beta=0.0025$ (95% CI 0.0021–0.0029), yellow: $R^2=0.68$, $\beta=0.000087$ (95% CI 0.000056–0.000118). Vaccine batches representing the blue, green and yellow trendlines comprised 4.22%, 63.69% and 32.09% of all vaccine doses, respectively, with 70.78%, 27.49% and 47.15% (blue trendline), 28.84%, 71.50% and 51.99%

One set of batches, referred to as the "green batches," accounting for over 60% of the overall sample demonstrated "a moderate or moderately-high level of adverse events associated with them."

Specifically, one severe adverse event was reported per approximately 400 doses in this batch — much higher than the rate of severe adverse events reported for the influenza vaccine.

Another set of batches, referred to as the "blue batches," was "associated with an extraordinarily high level of adverse events" — with a rate of reported severe adverse events of 1 in 10 doses, accounting for nearly 50% of the vaccine-related deaths in the sample.

Some batches within the "blue" group had an even higher rate of severe adverse events: up to 1 in every 6 doses.

However, the "blue batches" were administered the least in Denmark, representing less than 5% of the total number of doses in the sample. This led the scientists to note that "these especially bad batches may perhaps have been quietly pulled from the market by public health authorities."

The third set of batches, referred to as the "yellow batches," represented approximately 30% of the total number of doses administered in the sample, but were "associated with literally zero suspected adverse events."

Gerald Dyker, Ph.D., professor of organic chemistry at Ruhr University in Bochum, Germany, and a member of the team of five German scientists calling attention to the Danish study, suggested that "malicious" observers might conclude "this is how placebos would look."

"Why would a certain group have absolutely no side effects?" Iversen said. "These scientists said the only time you get that is in the control group. That's the group that was given the placebo."

'The regulators knew'

The Daily Sceptic reported that when the German researchers compared the batch numbers with publicly available data on the vaccine batches, "They made the startling discovery that almost none of the harmless batches, unlike the very-bad and not-so-bad batches, appear to have been subject to any quality-control testing at all."

"What they uncovered through public information … was that some of them were tested and some of them were not," Iversen said, noting that every single batch in the "blue" group and almost all batches in the "green" group were tested by regulators and were then "rolled out to the public."

However, when it came to the "yellow" batches, Iversen said the researchers found that all but one were not tested by the regulator.

Dyker told Preradovic, "This would support the initial suspicion that they are maybe in fact something like placebos," a point further emphasized by Iversen, who said:

> "How could this possibly be? What are the chances that the group that got no side effects whatsoever, that looks like a placebo, that looks like saline solution, what are the chances that none of them would have been tested except one, when all the others were tested in the other groups, practically all of them? The chances are next to nothing."
> "Do you know what that showcases right there? That right there shows the regulators knew. They knew they didn't need to test the saline solution. It would have been a waste of their time, so they didn't.
> "And they released it to the public, and that was 30% of the doses, and they were placebo and they knew they were placebo. That's what that looks like."

Observing that many more doses were given from the "blue" and "green" groups, Iversen suggested several possible reasons for this, including that the researchers believe when regulators saw the high percentage of severe adverse events in those two groups, "they quietly pulled" those batches from the market "without telling anybody."

In reference to the "blue" group, which demonstrated an extraordinarily high percentage of severe adverse events, Iversen said, "It's possible that this was a different formulation and they rolled it out there as they were experimenting on people."

She said it could be that it was "an intentional batch and that they were experimenting on the people, giving them this extra dose of something that had something different in it," she added, "because it looks like if they were giving people placebos, that they were experimenting on people."

"The only other thing that's possible is that they were covering up for the massive number of side effects," Iversen said, adding that there was an "outrageous number of side effects, and the only way to mitigate it and to keep the public calm [was] to give them a placebo. That way, the overall rate of side effects will be way lower."

Iversen noted that Denmark has a reporting system for severe adverse events similar to the Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS) in the U.S.

VAERS has historically been shown to report only 1% of actual vaccine adverse events.

She said that in such voluntary reporting systems, most people who experience adverse events never report their injuries. "You have to take that into consideration, because that actually skews the numbers lower than higher."

Suggesting that "This maybe was going on pretty much everywhere the Pfizer vaccines were being administered," Iversen called for an investigation to be launched in the U.S.:

> "This obviously needs to be investigated, and we would like to see this investigated here in the United States as well.
> "Were they doing this and where were they doing this? Did they notify people that they potentially were getting a placebo? … Were the people aware that they were in a clinical trial essentially? That's what that is. That is a test, you are a test subject … and they were collecting data.

Look at the lot #'s not everyone who got the Covid jabs got the kill shots because that's easy to see, while others got the saline.

Covid was not created to kill (very many). The fear of Covid was meant to have people line up to get vaccinated. And the vaccines were created to do most of the killing. Many deaths came from incorrect use of drugs (like Remdesivir). But people would not continue to demand vaccines if everyone they knew that got one dropped dead or had some horrible side effect. So many of the lots were all placebos.

They knowingly use Remdesivir to kill (RemDeathIsNear) to drive the fear of death from Covid and to scare people into the shots. It's one of the most diabolical things I've ever seen.
Sadly, my wife died in the hospital due to their deadly protocol nearly 2 years ago.
I'm saddened, grief stricken, and PISSED at what they did to her. They ripped her away from me after 34 years of marriage, and our ability to grow old together!
For this, those involved will ultimately pay the price!

I signed on today specifically to rely to your comment. First of all, I am so sorry to hear about your experience and the loss of your wife of 34 years. I am writing because I, too, lost my husband of 25 years from this horrible mess. He was diagnosed with cancer a year into the pandemic. Because of all of the covid hysteria it took them a year to diagnosis him correctly, even though he was pointing right at the cancer the whole time. So by that time, he was already at stage 4. Then, they tried to push the vax on him, and we both vehemently refused. We live in Italy, and this, combined with the hysterical way that many of the health authorities were acting, caused both my husband and I to lose total faith in the system. He was due to start radiation and chemo, but then couldn't go through with it because of this loss of faith. We tried alternative treatments, but unfortunately, for a number of reasons, he lost his battle six months ago. It was a perfect storm of hysteria, incompetence and loss of faith that lead to confusion, frustration and even inertia on our part at times, that killed my husband, who I will miss every day for the rest of my life. And, like you, I feel so cheated that we will not grow old together and live together for years to come, like we planned. So, with the risk of sounding trite, I just want to say that I feel your pain and anger. And I wish you the very best on your journey towards healing.

I am so very sorry for your loss. I pray that you will one day find some peace but I also know that the pain is overwhelming when you lose someone who shared your life for 25 years. Similar circumstances happened to my 78 year old Father-in-law. He passed away in May of 2020. Not from his cancer, but from internal bleeding from his feeding tube and poor care. He literally walked himself into the hospital on May 5th. 2020 to begin treatment for his oral cancer they took 8 months to find, and within 2 weeks he passed away. I'll never forget the phone call my husband got from him about a week into the ordeal. He was crying and wanted to come home. We immediately told doctors we wanted him home & at that point they told us he was too weak. Only one week later they had killed him with their negligence, and of course we weren't allowed to visit him during those 2 weeks until he was 2 hours from death and on a ventilator. Every time I revisit those 2 weeks, I get angry and have overwhelming sadness that he was all alone his last 2 weeks of life, being treated by incompetent and unfeeling humans. As a result of losing her spouse of 56 years, my Mother-in-law will never be the same. She has had deep depression since and is now showing signs of dementia. She really doesn't want to live life. My 17 year old, Her only Grandson, is what keeps her going and brings her brief moments of joy. But everyday is so painful for her. We all deserved better. 😞

I'm so very sorry. I cannot imagine how angry and devastated you must be. I had several friends whose parents passed away from the Remdesivir protocol. Health officials knew the death trail that Remdesivir had left previous to COVID, but I assume the $$$'s were too hard to pass up. The level of evil in the world driven by greed and power is frightening.

Unfortunately, you comment is blatantly false and can be easily demonstrated to be so. In my small community alone, I know of about 9 people who died within days of getting jabbed. There are also hundreds of thousands of deaths, if not more, reported within VAERS and other similar adverse reaction monitoring systems set up by governments around the world. I suggest that you educate yourself by accessing these systems like VAERS in the US, Eudra Vigilance in Europe, and the Yellow Card system in the UK, before coming here and telling others that they are wrong.

People are dropping like flies from these vaccines. Look at VAERS and consider the underreporting factor is as high as 100x. My perfectly healthy dad died from a stroke three weeks after his 2nd Pfizer shot. His doctor didn't report it. So, you know most of these deaths aren't even getting reported and yet they are hundred of higher than any vaccine in the history of the reporting system. I did report my dad's death. Then, I looked into his batch # and found it was the deadliest on the market up to that point.

Novel gene technology, hidden damming trial data, no long term trials…. and on and on. The truth is out there - including from PRIZER themselves - if you choose to question and look rather than complacently believe the government and the pharmaceutical industry are your friends.
No government wants to talk about what is causing these excess deaths…

This is not new news to me. I inherently knew this. I think the initial J&J roll out had a lot of placebos. Just from knowing family who got that brand one and they have things like autoimmune Rheumatoid Arthritis and had zero symptoms where others that have co factors such as these either got markedly worse, died or even their cancer came back etc..These people thought they were getting something to help and protect them and they were prob injected with saline. They were lied to and many died. This is more than criminal. I want to see Justice done and soon! These hellions need to be completely exposed and convicted like yesterday.

It is horrible that they were lied to and tricked. But the real "vaccines" did not work to protect anyone. The real ones were meant to kill or maim, sometimes slowly. The saline fake were the safer way - the lesser of two evils.

These pharmaceutical executives must be arrested and held without bail and their vaccine products production ceased. Other persons and processes in place at these facilities enabling the production of pharmaceuticals necessary for those whose health conditions would be otherwise imperilled need not be be disturbed. Clearly some political leaders and others are also corrupt and culpable. They can be dealt with later. For God's sake, those of you in authority in law enforcement and the military trained and entrusted to act at a time like this when humanity is being ruthlessly assaulted and killed worldwide, please do your job! There are so many not in law enforcement or the military who have put their lives on the line, and many have and are being harmed, their lives and livelihoods destroyed for resisting and doing their best getting the truth out in an effort to save humanity. "According to Iversen, the findings suggest that "many of the batches of the Pfizer vaccine administered to the public — up to 30% — were placebos. And even worse, the evidence points to regulators knowing about it and willingly administering them." I should think that this would be necessary for the NWO elite to fully complete their genocidal mission, though there are probably other, not in themselves lethal, products in the mRNA so-called vaccines, thus intentions. Like facilitating physiological connectivity to 5G infrastructure (towers and cells) for human tracking and annihilations. They would have to stagger deaths both immediate and later, as in latent developing cancers or with future non-placebo, toxic injections (to those previously given placebo shots and now trust them) to continue to encourage support and social pressures to get seemingly vaccinated now and in the near future. As well, to efficiently deal with, deny even, the masses of mRNA related deaths and to effectively monitor and manage the varied and complex results of this gross fraud. I would like to know if there could be enough graphene oxide nano sheets in these injections that would remain in bodies to facilitate rapid and extreme thermal disintegration reducing a corpse or living body to ashes instantly if exposed to specific RF frequencies.

Graphene Oxide is used to manufacture semi-conductors/circuits. The ultimate goal of the oligarchs, is to turn human biology into a computer that can be programmed. Self-assembling circuits/nanobots...think about it. What better way to totally control a human being than to be able to change/manipulate the programming data (genetic instructions) that is part of our DNA? The mad scientists never rest!

It goes even beyond your list. The endgame is digital transformation to cybernetic governance. Elements in the jabs can be activated via optics or frequency, and the new financial system based on 24/7 surveillance and social impact finance is the end game. They want new, small nuclear plants everywhere to handle the massive data in real time to run the DAOs and smart contract layer. Do not consent to the IDs, or tokenized economics.

I agree. They couldn't kill everyone or they would have to take care of themselves with no slaves. That is why I wonder if there was any method to who they gave the placebos to? I bet not to old people or anyone disabled. They would give them to healthy people able to do whatever work needed. I hope I get to see them all burn in hell.

Would that not explain why so many people had severe adverse reactions, and died - while others haven't been sick at all? I suspected that this was the case, quite awhile ago. The problem here is that you can't convince the people who haven't had any adverse reactions from the shots, that others are sick and dying - from the same shots. Covid was planned decades ago and the oligarchs planned for every contingency. They couldn't have everyone who took the shot, sick and dying. That would have made it too obvious that the shots were anything but "Safe and Effective". This way, they can claim: "If the mRNA were to blame; then everyone who took it would be sick and dying. There's no connection here."!

Of course! I saw a report on this back in 2021 -- IT'S AN EXPERIMENT! There must be a control group. The report I downloaded said that during the first six months about 30% of the jabs given were placebos. If you know anyone who says they had no problems with the jab, they likely got the placebo. There was another report -- not sure how credible it was and I didn't research it -- that said Blue states got a lot of the placebo, while red states got the doses with the higher levels of toxic stuff. There are 4 levels: 10%, 20%, 30% and 50%. Japan found that out when they began investigating the vials and measuring the stuff in it.

We've known about this for a long time. There had to be placebos because those people had to be the promoters. The ones who promote the shot by saying "I got the shot and nothing happened to me." Then there were shots just meant to cripple and maim. Then there were the killer shots. All by design. Someone should give Biden one of the real shots.

Peter McCullough, testifying during a hearing in Pennsylvania, cited this Danish investigation. He was asked by Joe Rogan why are some injection recipients injured by the shots and others not. McCullough at the time of the interview said he couldn't give an answer. He later came across the investigation. So, it's apparent that those lucky to get away unscathed received the placebo shot which had saline content in it and those unfortunate received a shot from a bad batch without each party knowing which shot and from which batch they were getting. Absolutely dark, corrupt, and criminal. And it's likely those responsible for incorporating bad batches won't be held accountable.

"Were the people aware that they were in a clinical trial essentially? That’s what that is. That is a test, you are a test subject … and they were collecting data."

Uh, wait a minute! The COVID shots were ALL administered under the EUA in the United States. Even when people were lied to and told that they were getting the FDA "approved" Comirnaty, they were not, because NO, ZERO, ZIP, ZILCH real Comirnaty was ever distributed in the U.S., (even when the vials were LABELED as such . . . in the fine print they were shown to not be manufactured in the correct approved facilities to be the "real thing"!), and ALL of the mandates were therefore completely ILLEGAL!

And recipients of EUA "investigational" drugs are ALL considered to be "guinea pigs" in a clinical trial, which is why they are supposed to be properly informed and then to sign a paper attesting that they give their informed consent. However, many thousands, and probably millions, of EUA doses were improperly and illegally administered without giving the required information and obtaining the required consent! (And many of the early vials' "package inserts" that were supposed to be shown to the recipients were "intentionally left blank"!) And the pharmaceutical companies virtually never monitored those mass-test subjects and conducted proper follow-ups. The entire "vaccination" program was rife with illegal act after illegal act on the parts of the drug companies, the government, and the persons involved with administering them!!!! Literally THOUSANDS of people SHOULD go to prison for what they did to the unsuspecting, defrauded public!. . . Starting with the Mega Criminal Mastermind, Anthony Fauci!

Bet all the US congress and senate members got the saline jabs. Same with Kamala and creepy Joe. Otherwise, out of that many people, we should have had at least one vax related issue. But nope. Not a one.

I read about this different lots situation quite awhile ago and then it just disappeared off the menu of topics having to do with covid. The first time it came up, it was solely based on the observation of adverse advent reporting on VAERS and then noticing the lot number phenomenon. I've wondered all along if the reason my sister had no adverse reactions after dutifully taken her two doses of Moderna (and then she stopped, thank goodness) was because she got her shots from a placebo lot. For awhile I wondered if distribution of lots was class based but that wouldn't explain the celebrity actors, musicians and sports figures who have had debilitating adverse reactions. Was it completely random? Anyway, wonder if all the vaccine manufacturers that got the contracts were running tests like this.

The Canadian National Citizens Inquiry - expert Dr Luz Maria Gutschi testified about the regulatory process in the EU, and that most of the cautionary observations raised by the regulators had to do with the manufacturing process. She further testified that the inoculation product made for the clinical tests was different than the product made for mass inoculation. She was the fourth witness on Day 2 of the Saskatoon hearings

I've had people ask me if the shots were aso dangerous, why aren't I sick. I simply tell them they are one of the lucky ones. All you have to do is study the results of "How bad was my shot" to understand this was a scientific experiment and of course the vials were different. Will the lucky guinea pigs realize how lucky they were? Probably not. They might not get so lucky with #2-4. All in all, they better stay our of Vegas. Their ability to understand chances is not to keen.

Amazing that this even got out. I wonder if they sent the fake doxxes to people with money et al, and the regular populace got the real shots.

I firmly believe that NBA and NFL teams along with many other high profile folks got placebos because it would have been devastating to big pharma's cause for large numbers of obviously healthy people to have terrible reactions perhaps even on TV. It's amazing the number of college athletes and lower tier professional athletes who have died or at least collapsed because of the vaccine. It wouldn't be very hard to give placebo batches to NFL and NBA teams when the players probably got vaccinated en masse with their teammates or by the team physician. I don't for a moment believe any of the physicians would have any knowledge of this. It would all be in the distribution.

except for Damar Hamlin, but they made sure he recovered, since he is a high profile athlete. but I think Damar got the real jab.

But even the placebos contained the microscopic tracking/communications technology.
